Town eyes recycle revamp

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

The Town of Didsbury

is looking into the possibility of providing a trailer that would collect recyclable material from homes of residents that can't get to the town recycle site.

Mayor Brian Wittal said

during his campaign for election eight weeks ago, he heard from seniors, single parents, and young families that found it inconvenient to collect and transport their recyclable material to the designated location in town.

Wittal says town administration is investigating the idea of a trailer, with several compartments carrying each category of recyclable material, and determining if it can be done on a cost-recovery basis.

A small fee, which is presently undetermined, would result in each pickup.

The trailer would be led by volunteer drivers who would work on a rotating schedule, if the idea comes into effect, said Wittal.

Another recycling issue in Didsbury is the contamination of green bin pickups.

Olds College, which receives the compost loads from Didsbury, does not tolerate the presence of plastic. A truck that was found to have plastic in its compostable load was rejected by Olds College, and redirected to the landfill site three months ago.

Since then, the town instituted a ride-along, where each bin would be checked for contamination prior to collection.

Violators of the no-plastic policy are tagged and kept on record.

"Those people will be dealt with eventually through one form or another," said Mountain View Waste Management Commission board member and town councillor Ernie Ryckman. He says repeat offenders will receive a service fee that will be tacked on to their utility bill.

Offenders of the green bin program are estimated to be at about five per cent.

"(This) tells me that the majority of people have bought into the program really well," he said.

Green bin pickups have been as high as 35 tonnes

TRASHING THE RECYCLE SITE — Town of Didsbury work experience student Chris Goode cleans up the recycle site near the town shop recently after someone has dumped their recyclables without organizing it into the proper recycle bins. Non compliance at the recycle area is a common problem, say town staff. People leave trash on the ground and add wrong materials to recycle bins.

New snow removal program for Didsbury

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury Town Council has approved a new snow removal program that will see town staff place a priority on specific areas of town.

The route saw some changes from last year, which manager of public works, Charlie MacDonald says were in response to public concern and complaints from last season's program.

"Our priorities will be where we feel have the most traffic in town" he said.

The program, as proposed by MacDonald, would see a focus on sidewalks that include: the east side of 20th Street, a vacant lot east of the K&W, town office, north of the train station, Kinsman

Park, 23rd Street, north to 15th Ave, West Heights Park, Westhill Park, 15th Avenue from 23rd Street to 21st Street, 15th Avenue Blvd near the Didsbury High School, the walking path near the hospital, and the sidewalk near the CPR crossing on 20th Ave.

Parking lots designated for removal, include the RCMP detachment, the Firehall, the Didsbury Memorial Complex, the town office, and the curling rink.

Other streets and avenues will be done as fill-in work. Snow removal commences once more than 4 inches of snow has fallen on town streets.

One change that has been made to this year's program is when the snow removal is to begin.

Last year's workers would remove snow between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., with this year's staff starting at 6 a.m. and going until 2:30 p.m.

The reason for the earlier start is due to what MacDonald says was one of the biggest concerns from last year.

"We didn't respond quick enough to the schools," he said.

Also discussed is a greater focus on snow removal in cul-de-sacs.

Snow building up in the streets can be an inconvenience in most areas, but specifically where space is tight, such as cul-de-sacs, parking and leaving the neighborhood is a heightened challenge.

Presently, town bylaws restrict residents from pushing snow that has fallen on their property onto public streets.

The Town of Didsbury has approved a new snow removal program. Focus will be on main arteries with greater attention being paid to school zones.

Road closure discussed

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury Town Council gave first reading to a proposed road closure in Didsbury during its meeting Nov. 4.

The proposed closure, which would involve a portion of 14th Street from north of 23rd Ave, extending to Hwy. 582, has been sent to the Minister of Infrastructure for approval.

Due to the access being on a curve and considered a blind spot by many drivers that use the road, it has been considered a point of concern.

Alberta Transportation completed a draft study on access off of Hwy. 582 going through Didsbury, two years ago.

"Alberta Transportation has seen it as a concern for access, because of the hill there and the slight curve, as a visibility issue," said Town of Didsbury Planning and Development Officer Robert Wigg.

"There was supposed to be a road going into Valarosa straight across from that.

We voluntarily took that road out of the development about a year ago, at Alberta Transportation's suggestion that it was a concern as well because of the hill and the curve."

"That access has actually never been developed for highway standards," he said.

The land east along the road has been purchased. A medium density development for the land was approved during a municipal planning commission meeting last week.

Didsbury Town Council has given first reading to a proposed road closure at 14th Street, off Hwy 582.

From scandals to stifling dissent

HUGH MACDONALD

A few months ago, Albertans learned that the government had hired private investigators to spy on landowners and other concerned citizens who attended public meetings of the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board (EUB) at a transmission line hearing in Rimney and at a hearing in Redwater on the North West Upgrader.

The EUB spy scandal has made it clear that there are big problems with Alberta's energy and utilities regulatory system. When the government spies on its own citizens – citizens who are only trying to express their concerns with regard to proposed power lines and other utilities that could impact their quality of life – the system is badly broken.

But instead of fixing the problem, the government has drafted Bill 46, which puts new restrictions on concerned Albertans who want to have a say in how utilities and energy developments are managed in this province.

Among other things, Bill 46 will:

- Allow the Public Utilities Commission to approve new transmission lines without considering "present and future public convenience and need." [section 96(14)(c)(ii);]
- Give the Alberta Utilities Commission the power to make orders and issue decisions without giving public notice or holding public hearings [section 9(1);]
- Give the Alberta Utilities Commission the power to prevent landowners and consumers from making verbal representations to the Commission [section 9(4);]
- Limit the time period in which Albertans can appeal a decision or order made by the Alberta Utilities Commission to 30 days [section 29(2);]
- Restrict the ability of landowners to hire outside legal counsel when intervening in regulatory hearings [section 9(4)].

In nutshell, this means that if the government proposes to erect power lines or other utilities on your land or nearby land that could affect your property, farm, business or home, your options to let the government understand your feelings on the issue will be severely hampered.

Legal experts, consumer protection groups and landowners have all expressed major concerns about the direction in which Minister of Energy Mel Knight is trying to lead Albertans. If the Premier wants to restore public confidence in the regulatory process, the first step is replacing the Minister of Energy.

Bill 46 is an antidemocratic measure that if passed into law will severely hamper the ability of Albertans who have any concerns or even constructive suggestions regarding proposed utility construction to express their side of the story to government. Landowners, environmentalists, recreational users of Alberta's landscape – all these voices will be muffled by Bill 46 should it be passed into law.

Legislation like this helps the government cover up mistakes and prevents Albertans from participating in crucial discussions that affect tens of thousands of people. Write the Premier and your MLA to let them know that an open, accountable government would never pass Bill 46.

Liberals living in the past

LINK BYFIELD

Most citizens – Mr. and Ms. Ordinary Voter – don't ask for much from politicians.

I'm not talking here about governments. We now expect plenty from them. But governments are permanent bureaucratic institutions. We don't choose them. We choose politicians, who are there (so we are told) to run the government, and in small ways actually do.

So what do we expect from politicians?

All decent people have ever asked from their rulers – Persian satraps, African chieftains or ministers of housing – are two virtues: justice and mercy.

Today we would say "fairness and compassion." Same thing.

As voters in an impersonal and often bewildering society, we rely on politicians to ensure that the government treats us fairly and sympathetically. To do this, we seek politicians who genuinely care about ordinary human beings more than abstract ideologies and systems.

This may seem obvious, but it helps explain why the federal Liberals are in trouble.

In the cause of "progressivism" the Liberals want the Harper government to rescue cold-blooded Canadian murderer Ronald Smith from well-deserved execution in Montana, and they want gentle, Canadian-style treatment for the Taliban murderers our soldiers capture and hand over to the Afghan government.

The Harper government is not interested in pursuing either cause. Instead it is trying to get Canadian citizen Michael Kapoustin out of what appears to be a blatantly unjust 17-year fraud sentence in dismal Bulgaria – a case the Liberals ignored for years.

So whose sense of justice and compassion will Canadians approve of, the Liberals' or the Conservatives'?

While the Conservatives condemn China's grotesque human and civil rights abuses, Liberals side with the terrorist Tamil Tigers and march in Montreal with the terrorist Hamas.

The effect is starting to show up in the polls.

In the past, Liberals have successfully portrayed Conservatives as clinging to a cold, dark love of bygone privilege at the expense of a bright, progressive, egalitarian future.

This international cliché has complex origins, going back in Canada to when the Conservatives championed British imperialism and big business, against the "sunny ways" of Wilfrid Laurier and the Canadian populism of the Mackenzie King Liberals.

That's why most people naturally assume Conservatives are harsh and backward-looking, and Liberals merciful and forward-looking.

Harper's great task is to change this assumption, in a way that his two "Progressive" Conservative predecessors, Diefenbaker and Mulroney, never could.

It becomes increasingly evident, at least to me, that Harper is approaching the "fairness and compassion" conundrum cautiously, and at a deep level – in fact at a constitutional level never tried before.

In one of the few areas still undisputedly federal – foreign policy – he is a classic Anglo-American conservative, a position most Canadians admire because it bespeaks justice, mercy and courage.

His domestic policy must be more subtle.

While playing the federal political game mostly according to the established rules, Harper is keeping his eye fixed on changing the rules in three ways: clarifying what he calls the "roles and responsibilities" of Ottawa and the provinces; restricting Ottawa's right to intrude in matters that are constitutionally provincial (especially social programs); and reforming the Senate, an absolutely vital institution in any fair federal system.

In short, Harper sees that "justice and mercy" come from political accountability, which comes in turn from clear constitutional responsibility.

But because so few Canadians can connect these things, he is patient in going about it.

Westglen celebrates 20 years

Teachers reflect on two decades of learning

BY JOSH SKAPIN

Didsbury Review

Like any anniversary, milestones in particular, celebration inspires memories.

Last week, Westglen School recognized two decades since chalk first touched the blackboards at a middle school in Didsbury.

And while 20 years may not be considered old compared to other schools in neighbouring municipalities that are blowing out the candles on their fifty year anniversary, a list of former and many present Didsbury residents have reason to fondly remember the early, grassroots days of a community pillar.

Once the middle school was approved, staff at both Ross Ford school and the Didsbury High School were approached regarding their interest in helping launch Westglen School.

"We had a wonderful administrator at the time," said Sharon Israelson, a founding Westglen teacher, on the school's original principal Robert Irvine.

"He was an energetic man and a wonderful educational leader. He got us enthused about the philosophy of the middle school and we went en masse to a couple of middle school conferences in Saskatoon. As a result, we had a common purpose."

Israelson, who worked full-time as a French and language arts teacher, and now continues with Westglen as a substitute educator, fondly recalls ski trips, including one that saw 187 students take to the hills.

"One of the things we tried to do at Westglen was expose students to opportunities and experiences that they wouldn't have normally had."

Wayne Green, the school's original vice-principal says it was a neat experience to help build a school.

"Setting up some of the traditions that still exist at the school, like picking team names and team colours that are still ongoing," he said.

The students submitted possible team names, which were shortlisted prior to voting on the Wildcats handle they still carry today.

Another tradition Green watched grow was the annual Christmas feast.

Just before Christmas the school provides a hot turkey meal for students at the school — since growing to include substitute teachers, bus drivers and office personnel.

Initially the school was supposed to open at the start of September, but due to delays was put off until the end of the month.

During that time, students were housed in Ross Ford, the Didsbury High School, and the structure now known as the museum.

"It was a little bit hard to get everyone together," said Green.

"Everyone was going their separate ways. (Irvine and I had our bikes and we would go back and forth between the schools, visiting the teachers on bicycles.

Luckily, we had weather similar to this year's weather."

Because the school didn't have an inside gymnasium, students spent all of September and most of October taking their Physical Education classes outside.

At the time there was a portable building just west of the high school, which was used as Westglen's school office for September.

Pam Whitlow, Brian McCargar and Connie Visser are the only teaching staff members that started and remain with the school.

When Visser looks back on her time with Westglen, she remembers the early days.

Days that were drastically different from starting a new teaching job with an established school.

"We started from scratch," she said.

"Our desks were new. Everything needed to be set up, opened, and out together. And it was just us — just the staff that did it."

It wasn't like moving from an old school to a new one, where you take your filing cabinets that are full of stuff. Everything was brand new."

Present Westglen principal Jeff Thompson says he was amazed at the talent and dedication of the staff when he first joined its roster as a Grade 5 homeroom teacher in 1998.

"I can honestly say that although some of the faces are new today, that talent and dedication is as strong as ever," he said.

"I have had the fortunate opportunity to work with wonderful children over the last nine years and that is definitely a positive reflection of the community we serve. I have also had the opportunity to work with some of the best educators in the business."

What Alberta landowners need to know about

Bill 46 the Alberta Utilities Commission Act

With our growing province, new and upgraded electricity lines are needed to help keep the lights on for Albertans.

Bill 46, the Alberta Utilities Commission Act, balances the needs of landowners who are affected by development with the electricity and utilities needs of all Albertans.

It is important for Albertans to know the facts about this bill and other changes made during the past year.

- Anyone directly affected must be notified and will have a say, if they choose.
- Those individuals will have access to funding to help cover their costs, including legal counsel if they choose.
- Even if one directly affected person requests a hearing, a hearing must be held.
- Those not directly affected can apply to participate in hearings.
- Public interest, social and economic issues, and the impact on the environment must be considered for every project.
- Changes already made will help ensure Albertans receive fair and increased compensation for electricity towers on their land.

For more information about Bill 46, go to the spotlight section at www.energy.gov.ab.ca or to provide comments call 310 4455.

Kiseyinewakup released on bail

BY JODI STYNER
MVG Staff

A 32-year-old man who robbed three people in Olds with a BB gun has been released from custody.

Daniel Curtis Kiseyinewakup was released from the Didsbury Provincial courthouse Monday on $1,000 cash bail and will live on a farm near Didsbury until his next court appearance on the charges.

On Sept. 28, two males were leaving the Olds Credit Union after using the ATM when they were approached by a male with what looked like a handgun. The suspect demanded cash and the two males complied.

Within minutes, police located a suspect nearby. While arresting him, police were given a dispatch of a second robbery which had occurred at the Games Portal.

Kiseyinewakup stands charged with four counts of robbery and four counts of use of an imitation firearm in the commission of an offence.

During Monday's bail hearing, Crown prosecutor Doug Simpson told the judge he didn't feel it would be appropriate to release the accused, based on past failures to adhere to court orders. Simpson said Kiseyinewakup has more than 60 convictions on his criminal record, including a number of failures to comply with conditions set out by the court, failure to attend court and being unlawfully at large.

"I submit that he will reoffend and these are very serious charges he's facing," said Simpson.

While Judge Judith Shriar agreed the accused's record is "horrible," she said these new charges might not appropriately reflect the crime.

"I get the sense that there is some overcharging here," she said. "I'm not faulting the police. I'm just trying to look at the whole picture."

She released Kiseyinewakup on $1,000 cash bail. Terms of the release include that he reside with Bernard Hosey on his farm west of Didsbury, or where approved in writing by the supervisor of release.

He must also adhere to a curfew from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m., abstain from the consumption of alcohol and non-prescription drugs and is prohibited from possessing any weapons.

Kiseyinewakup will return to Didsbury court on Jan. 7 to enter a plea to the robbery charges.

Non-event to benefit library

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

We're all familiar with the fundraising galas that require tracking down uncomfortable formal wear, trying to find a parking space, and pretending to like the unusual entrée.

Friends of the Didsbury Municipal Library, a group formed with the purpose of promoting and raising money for the library, isn't particularly fond of those types of fundraisers.

This year, they've come up with a way for area library-users to support their love for reading without cancelling their Saturday night plans.

The Friends of the Didsbury Library non-event – that's right, nothing's happening, are welcoming donations until Nov. 31.

Libraries receive funding for the population of the town in which they exist.

However, the service area is a different story.

"The population that we actually service is 6,000," said Friends of the Didsbury Library board member Kim Penwarden.

"The province needs to step up, but we are trying to raise some of our own money."

Last year, the library was visited 45,092 times, and had 50,367 items borrowed.

Donations to the library would go towards programs and books for young children, activities for teens, outreach services to long-term care residents, travelling library with Seniors Support Group, CNIB D.A.I.S.Y. Books for the visually challenged, CDs, DVDs, among others.

Their wish list includes more space, updated shelves – upgrading from the 25-plus year old shelves they have now.

"We want to give the library, because they know how to use it best," said Penwarden.

Emceeing the non-event are Jason and Sheldon Valleau of the Didsbury area band, the Polyesters.

The non-event will include a number of door prizes that people qualify for a chance to win, upon donating.

Among them is a hand painted china plate by Didsbury artist Joyce Mullen.

Last year's fundraiser netted the library approximately $1,000, but organizers feels this year's endeavor can do much better.

Talks have started for plans on how to celebrate the library's centennial in 2008.

Country stars come to Didsbury

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

A star-studded list of Canadian Country music talent will be stopping in Didsbury this week.

Sean Hogan's Canadian Country Christmas Tour, which will be donating all proceeds from ticket sales to the Mountain View Food

"We would crank the tunes. We would always be singing at Christmastime. I remember my mom singing at the top of her lungs, and I would join in with her. It was always really musical at my house, that's for sure."

SAMANTHA KING

Bank, is slated to play at the Didsbury Memorial Centre Nov. 29.

Now into its fourth year of the tour, Hogan, an acclaimed singer/songwriter will be bringing Jamie Warren, Steve Fox, Julian Austin, Greg Hanna, Duane Steele, and Samantha King on the tour that will make 19 stops through Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.

King, a native of Bruce, Alberta says she'll be performing some of her new work, along with her favourite Christmas tunes.

"One of the biggest memories I have is all the music at Christmas," she said.

"We would crank the tunes. We would always be singing at Christmastime. I remember my mom singing at the top of her lungs, and I would join in with her. It was always really musical at my house, that's for sure."

Touring across the country can be a compelling experience to begin with, but for King, keeping company with some of the top names in Canadian Country music doesn't hurt.

"If you're with a bunch of really talented musicians, and most importantly people that you get along with, it's a great feeling, because you're doing what you love to do which is jump on stage and sing for people who want to hear your music."

"Every day you wake up knowing you're going to perform and that you're with people that you just love to be with."

Japanese team to meet Ramblers

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Details are finalized for an international hockey event that will see a midget-aged team from Japan take to the ice against the homegrown Didsbury Ramblers at the Memorial Complex Dec. 5.

"Having a team coming overseas is exciting," said Midget Ramblers team manager Rhonda Hunter.

"You want to put on a show and something great for the people of this community."

king given for the people of this country.

nity."

Tokyo-area Saitama Sakae was scheduled to be in Alberta to take part in an AA Midget hockey tournament in Medicine Hat, when their former coach and present Didsbury resident Jeff Chomyn arranged for his old club to come for a visit and play a game against the locals.

Hunter says it was important for every level of Didsbury Minor Hockey to participate in the event.

Peewee level Ramblers will participate in the pre-game warm-up:

the town's two Tyke squads will face-off in a 12-minute game during the first intermission, and the Didsbury Skating Club will be featured with performances by their skaters in the second intermission.

sible for collecting the donations off the ice.

Also, players selected from the Bantam squad will carry team flags in a pre-game ceremony.

Fran Murphy, a recipient of the Hockey Alberta 100th anniversary award this year, will be featured in a ceremonial puck-drop.

Players from the Japanese club will pay visits to both Ross Ford Elementary School and Westglenn School, for autograph sessions with area youth.

The Ramblers Minute

Tykes 2 torch opponents

Our tyke 2 team is off to another fantastic start this season with an opening record 4 wins and 1 loss. We have a great balance of new and returning talent that has gelled into an explosive scoring machine backed by a very stingy defense. The only thing our team is lacking is quit.

Our rookies this year include Carson Fischer who has a great attitude and a lot of determination. He does not allow many players past his strong stick work. Kayla Fischer has come a long way since training camp and also has a lot of determination (must run in the family) that will put fear into her opponents for years to come. Harrison Jelinek is a real go-getter. His work ethic and monster-sized heart are really paying off in the score sheet and for our team. Jacob Johnston is a defensive specialist whose ever-improving skills have prevented many scoring opportunities against us. Maddox Laveck is one of our youngest stars this season and has a great ability to put himself into the open and good scoring position. Rounding out our list of impressive first years is McKinley Nelson. A fireball on the ice, and legs that don't stop moving, she is blooming into a real offensive threat.

We also have a very strong core of veterans this year. Noah Campbell has already more than doubled his point total for all of last year and is quickly developing into a great two-way player with super playmaking abilities. There are not a lot of players who can catch Jason Gerber when he takes off. His scoring prowess and steady backchecking are a huge asset to the team. Hett Laveck is a selfless player who, while taking defense seriously, has play making ability and a wrist shot that have left many opponents dazed and confused. Paton Rothenbusch, in one word grit. His bulldog style, tireless legs and potent backhand have come through for this team in a big way. Erron Thompson rounds out our stellar group of returnees. This guy has moves that would make many NHLers jealous. With his mix offensive and defensive talent, he is a very dangerous player.

All these kids contribute so much to our team. The fun factor and success of the team so far can only be attributed to hard work, emphasis on team play, and the variety of skills stated above. The coaching team this year has Dan Rothenbusch and Darren Campbell returning this year that have been joined by Kevin Fischer and Greg Laveck. Our hard working management team of Karen Rothenbusch and Shannon Campbell deserve a lot of praise for their commitment to our team.

Concerns over illegal hunting

BY PAUL FREY
Didsbury Review

Three incidents of illegal hunting over the past two-and-a-half weeks have fish and wildlife officials concerned about resident safety and illegal practices.

"What these guys are doing is head-hunting, trophy hunting. In the end, they're only hurting themselves," said Adam Mirus, Olds fish and wildlife officer.

In one incident, on Nov. 10, a mule deer buck was shot near the road approximately 1.5 kilometres east of Highway 22, and nine kilometres south Highway 27. According to wildlife officers, the dead animal was within viewing distance of a residence. The entire animal was left in the field.

In a second instance, also on Nov. 10, a culprit or culprits are suspected of shooting a mule deer buck, taking the trophy, and leaving the rest of the body to waste. That incident occurred southeast of Bowden.

In a third instance, a mule deer buck was shot and left intact in a field approximately 9.5 kilometres east of Olds on Highway 27 at Range Road 28.2.

Mule deer are only available to hunt one-half hour before sunrise and one-half hour after sunset Thursday through Saturday and hunters must have qualified to hunt them through a draw.

Mirus said the latest incidents are troubling, not only because the deer were most likely shot outside the legal times, but the culprits also took away legitimate hunters' ability to take those animals.

"In all these cases, landowners have not given permission to anyone. They're trespassing," he said, adding that wildlife officers have been busier with investigations of illegal hunting this year than in the past.

Anyone with any information about these incidents is asked to contact the Report A Poacher line at 1-800-642-3800.

Area lacks basketball referees

BY PAUL FREY
Didsbury Review

Due to the shortage of qualified people able to officiate basketball games, the president of the local Basketball Referees Association is sending out an appeal to community members.

"We're looking for people that have an interest in basketball and we'll take whatever time commitment they can give," said Wanda Vandervelden, president of the local Basketball Referees Association.

Vandervelden said due to previous officials' university time commitments and other issues, there aren't as many people volunteering this year. The association lost several of its 12 officials it had last season to officiate basketball games throughout the county.

Anyone wanting to help out can contact Vandervelden at 556-3794. The next meeting of the Basketball Referees Association is on Nov. 28 at 6:30 p.m. at Olds Junior-Senior High School.

West Didsbury 4-H Club Weighs-In

On October 26 the West Didsbury 4-H club had weigh-in day at the Westway Farms. We all guessed our calves weights before we weighed them. All our calves look really good and most of our weights were close to our guess weight. Our club has really grown this year and it was fun to have so many new faces at weigh-in. After having a great lunch made by Mrs. Hadway we had our meeting and elections. The following people were elected: President: Becca Scheidt, Vice-President: AJ McCoy, Secretary: Alysha Pickney, Treasurer: Wade Goerzen, Club Reporters: Mikaela Epp, Dayna Goerzen, Andie Hadway, Parliamentarian: Dayle Kimmel. Our general leaders are Mrs. Carol Hadway and Mr. Ric Arthurs.

On November 17th we had our electronics round up in the Knox United Church parking lot. We had a really good day and we collected several pick up loads of electronics for recycling. Thank you to everyone who brought in their electronics for recycling.

We are looking forward to our Christmas Party on November 23rd with Prairie Partners 4-H Club. We are going bowling in Olds. Then sometime in December we will be delivering light bulbs and information packages for Encana as a fundraiser called Operation Porch Light.
